

Literatur

- 1 Notfallstationen, A.d.I.ä.L. Notfallstationen: strukturelle und organisatorische Empfehlungen für die Qualitätssicherung. Schweiz Ärztezeitung. 2005; 86(33):1918–28.
- 2 Matter H, Caduff B, Schöb O. Interdisziplinäre Teamarbeit auf einer Notfallstation. Schweiz Ärztezeitung. 2006; 87(19):849–54.
- 3 Staubli, G. Braucht die Kinder-Notfallmedizin einen Schwerpunkt oder Fähigkeitsausweis? Paediatrica. 2009;20:36.
- 4 Staubli G, Bäckert P. Emergency crowding auch in der Pädiatrie. Paediatrica. 2010;21:47.
- 5 Committee on Pediatric Emergency Medicine A.A.o.P. Overcrowding crisis in our nation's emergency departments: is our safety net unraveling? Pediatrics. 2004;114:878–88.
- 6 Moskop JC et al. Emergency department crowding, Part 1 – concept, causes, and moral consequences. Ann Emerg Med. 2009; 53:605–11.
- 7 Miro O, Salgado E, Sanchez M. Why are the strategies for improving emergency department effectiveness so volatile? J Emerg Med. 2009;37:419–24.
- 8 Reinberg O, et al. Trauma does not happen at random. Predictable rhythm pattern of injury occurrence in a cohort of 15,110 children. J Pediatr Surg. 2005;40(5):819–25.
- 9 Matsumura T, et al. The increasing use of pediatric emergency facilities in the evening. Pediatr Emerg Care. 2007;23(3):142–7.
- 10 LeBaron, et al. «Be quick»: a systems response to overcrowding in the pediatric emergency department. Pediatr Emerg Care. 2010; 26(11):808–13.
- 11 Berry A, et al. Why do parents bring children to the emergency department for nonurgent conditions? A qualitative study. Ambulatory Pediatrics. 2008;8:360–7.
- 12 Bunik M, et al. Pediatric telephone call centers: how do they affect health care use and costs? Pediatrics. 2007;119:e305–e313.
- 13 Kempe A, et al. How safe is triage by an after-hours telephone call center? Pediatrics. 2006;118:457–63.
- 14 Bolli S, Van Melle G and LB. After-hours paediatric telephone triage and advice: the Neuchatel experience. Eur J Pediatr. 2005;164:568–72.